They that have power to hurt, and will do none,
 That do not do the thing they most do show,
 Who, moving others, are themselves as stone,
 Unmoved, cold, and to temptation slow –
 They rightly do inherit heaven's graces,
 And husband nature's riches from expense;
 They are the lords and owners of their faces,
 Others but stewards of their excellence.
 The summer's flower is to the summer sweet,
 Though to itself it only live and die,
 But if that flower with base infection meet,
 The basest weed outbraves his dignity;
 For sweetest things turn sourest by their deeds:
 Lilies that fester smell far worse than weeds.

- 2 the thing they most do show] what they seem most likely to do from their appearance (some suggestion of hypocrisy, developing as the poem continues)
 5 rightly] (ironic tone possible); graces] favours (in looks and otherwise)
 6 husband] manage prudently; expense] being wastefully expended
 8 stewards] caretakers, custodians 9 is to the summer sweet] perfumes the summer air 10 to itself] in isolation, without reference to others
 11 base] loathsome 12 basest] lowliest; outbraves] surpasses (in appearance or moral quality)

How sweet and lovely dost thou make the shame,
 Which, like a canker in the fragrant rose,
 Doth spot the beauty of thy budding name!
 O, in what sweets dost thou thy sins enclose,
 That tongue that tells the story of thy days,
 Making lascivious comments on thy sport,
 Cannot dispraise, but in a kind of praise,
 Naming thy name, blesses an ill report.
 O, what a mansion have those vices got
 Which for their habitation chose out thee,
 Where beauty's veil doth cover every blot,
 And all things turns to fair that eyes can see!
 Take heed, dear heart, of this large privilege,
 The hardest knife ill-us'd doth lose his edge.

2 canker] grub causing blight 3 name] reputation fun 7-8 The ambiguous punctuation in the two lines may or may not be independent of each other) follows the earliest text 12 (The subject of turns is beauty's veil) 14 his] its
